

Rhianna Ruggiero

DSC 640

TSA Complaints

Audience

For this assignment I am acting as a government worker who needs to reduce the number of TSA complaints at airports in the US. I will be showing this information to other government employees who are responsible for overseeing the TSA employees at various airports and who control staffing and who will understand and be familiar with the data.

Purpose

The purpose of this project is to reduce the number of complaints at airports by either increasing TSA staffing or requiring more training at certain airports. I want to show how much complaints have increased over the past few years as well to show why a change needs to be made. I hope that they will walk away knowing where more staff may be needed at various airports and in what categories more training is needed for TSA employees. I am recommending a change in that I will recommend changes in the number of employees or in giving more training to employees.

Medium

I will use PowerPoint to present this information since I will be in a meeting with the government workers who are responsible for the TSA employee staffing and training. This will be the best method since I will have everyone together in one room and be able to clearly show my visuals to them.

Design

For the design I made sure to use a gradient color in order to clearly show larger numbers and smaller numbers. I also used a palette that is good for anyone who is color blind so that everyone can see the stacked bar chart and boxplot charts clearly. I also tried to stay in a fairly consistent color scheme throughout all visuals. I made sure that each visual had a title and axis titles that clearly stated what data each visual included. I also made sure that all fields could be easily read. I also removed grid lines so that the visuals were less cluttered and easier to look at.

Ethical Considerations:

I connected each data set together in Tableau based on the airport code. The data was collected ethically in that the information came directly from public TSA published reports.

There are some regulations around data that the TSA can collect about individuals including personally identifiable information which is not included in these data sets. If the data was included, however, I would ensure that the visuals I create do not specifically show who complained. Some risks could include that some visuals show information for a specific year or location within the US that could confuse the audience if they are not aware of this. I made sure to be descriptive with my titles so that the audience would know if the data was filtered to a specific location or time.

Rhianna Ruggiero

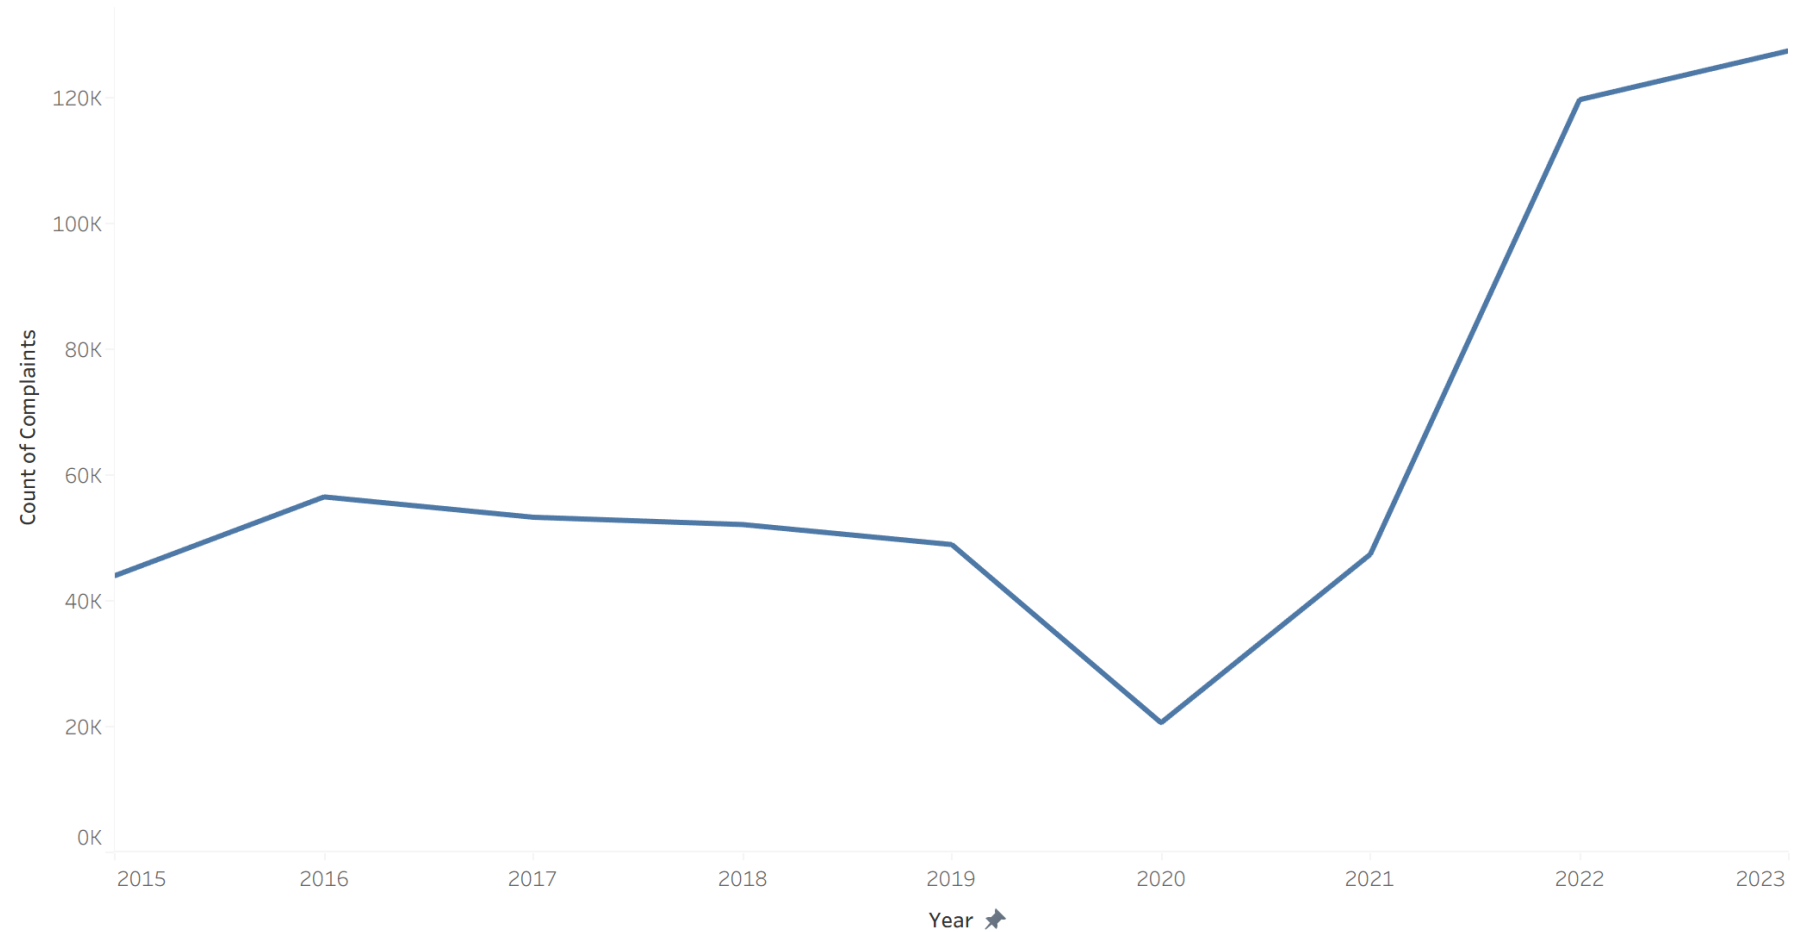

DSC 640

WE NEED TO REDUCE TSA COMPLAINTS AT US AIRPORTS

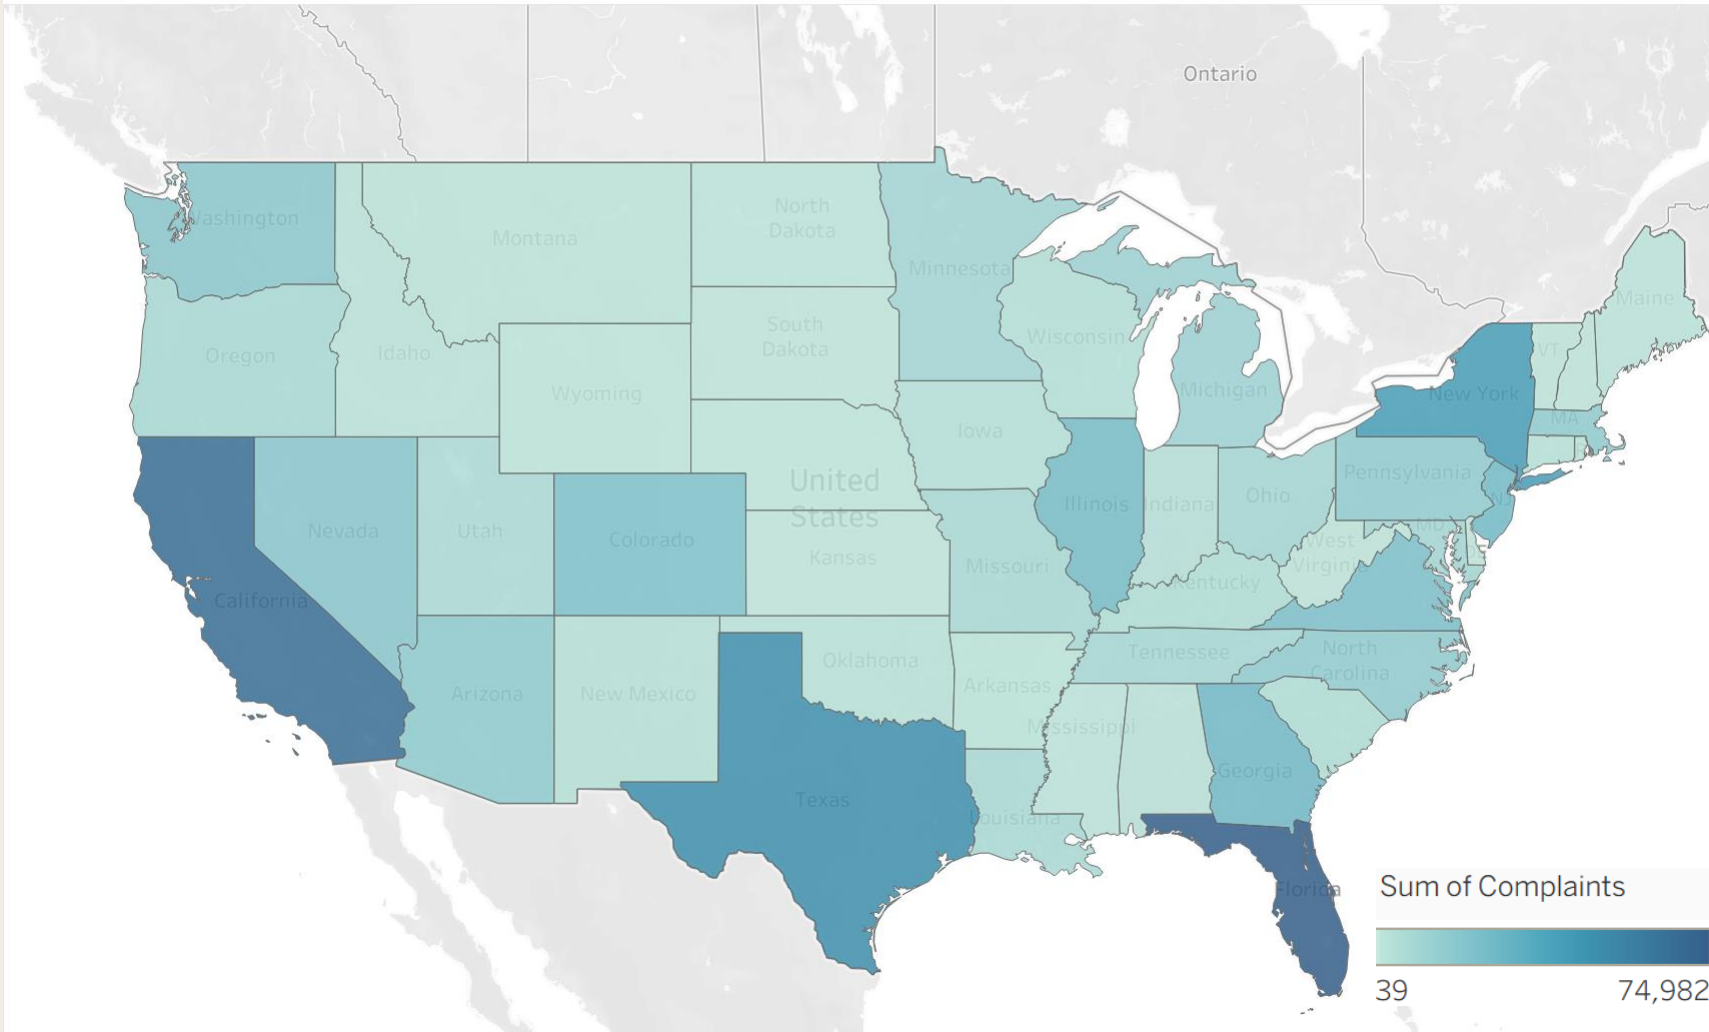

TSA COMPLAINTS HAVE INCREASED

- The number of complaints in the US has increased astronomically over time
- There are over 3x more complaints in 2023 than there was in 2015

Count of TSA Complaints in the US Over Time

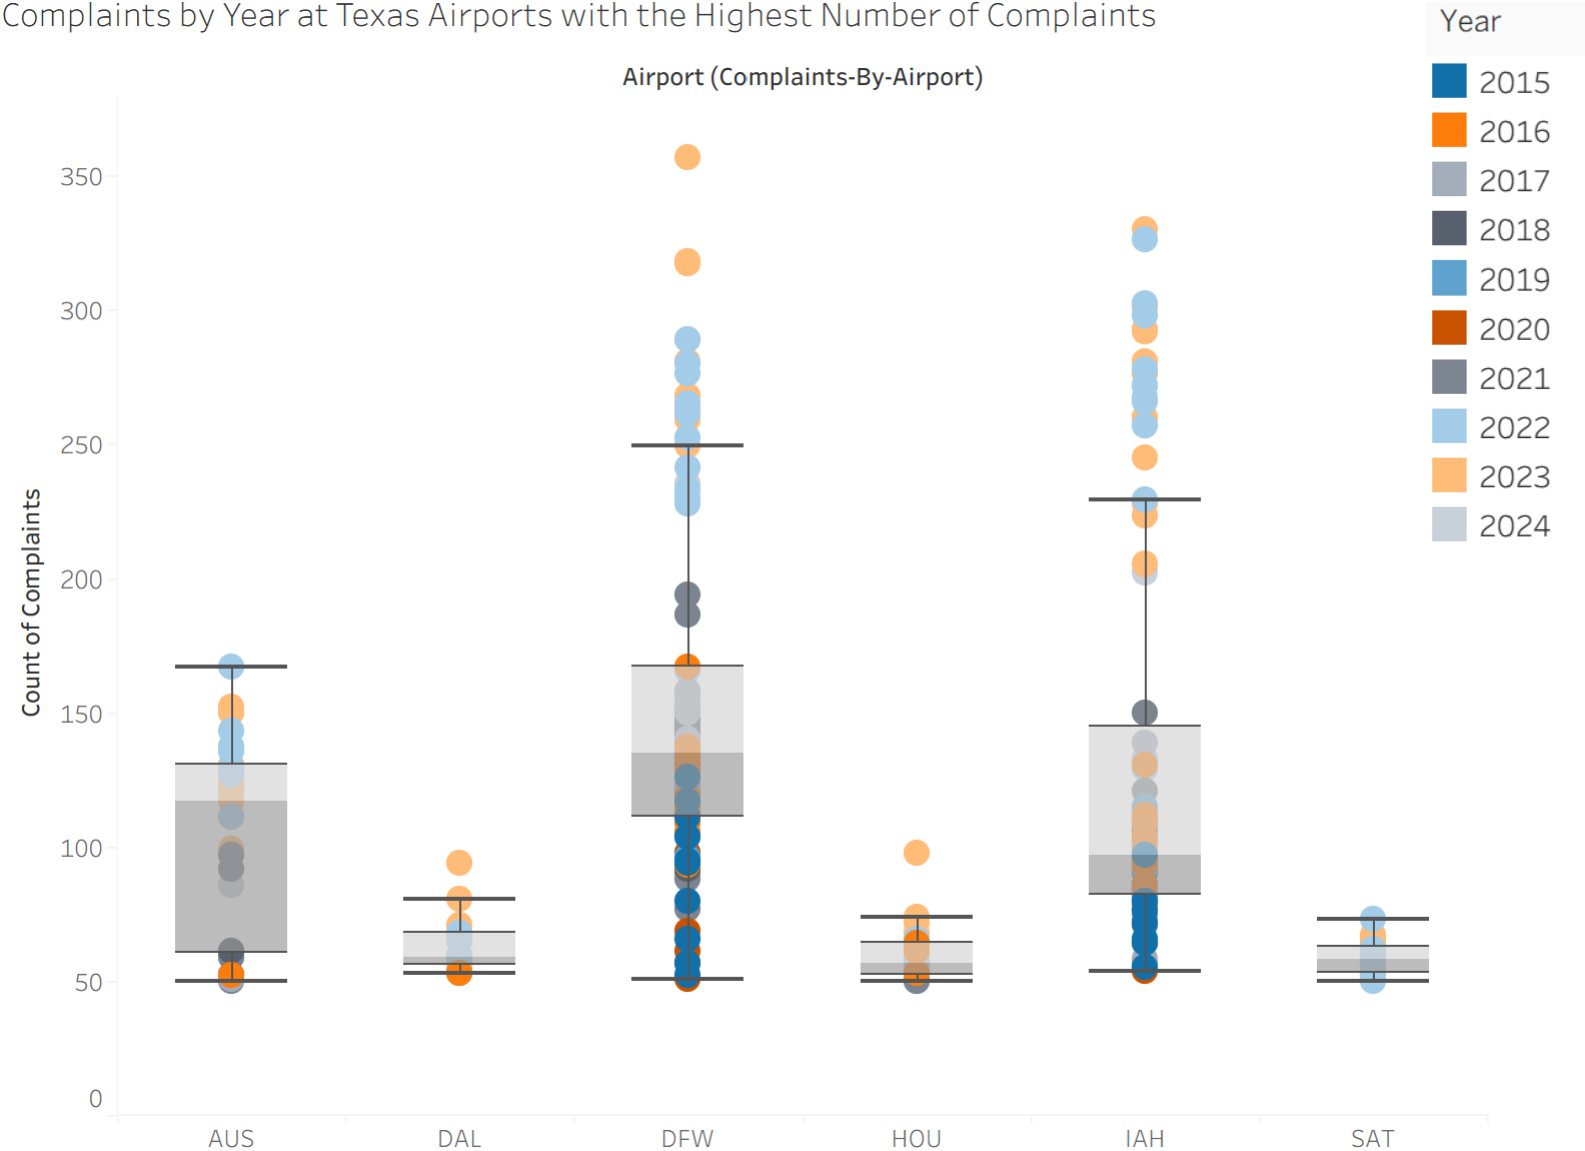

Sum of Airport Complaints by State

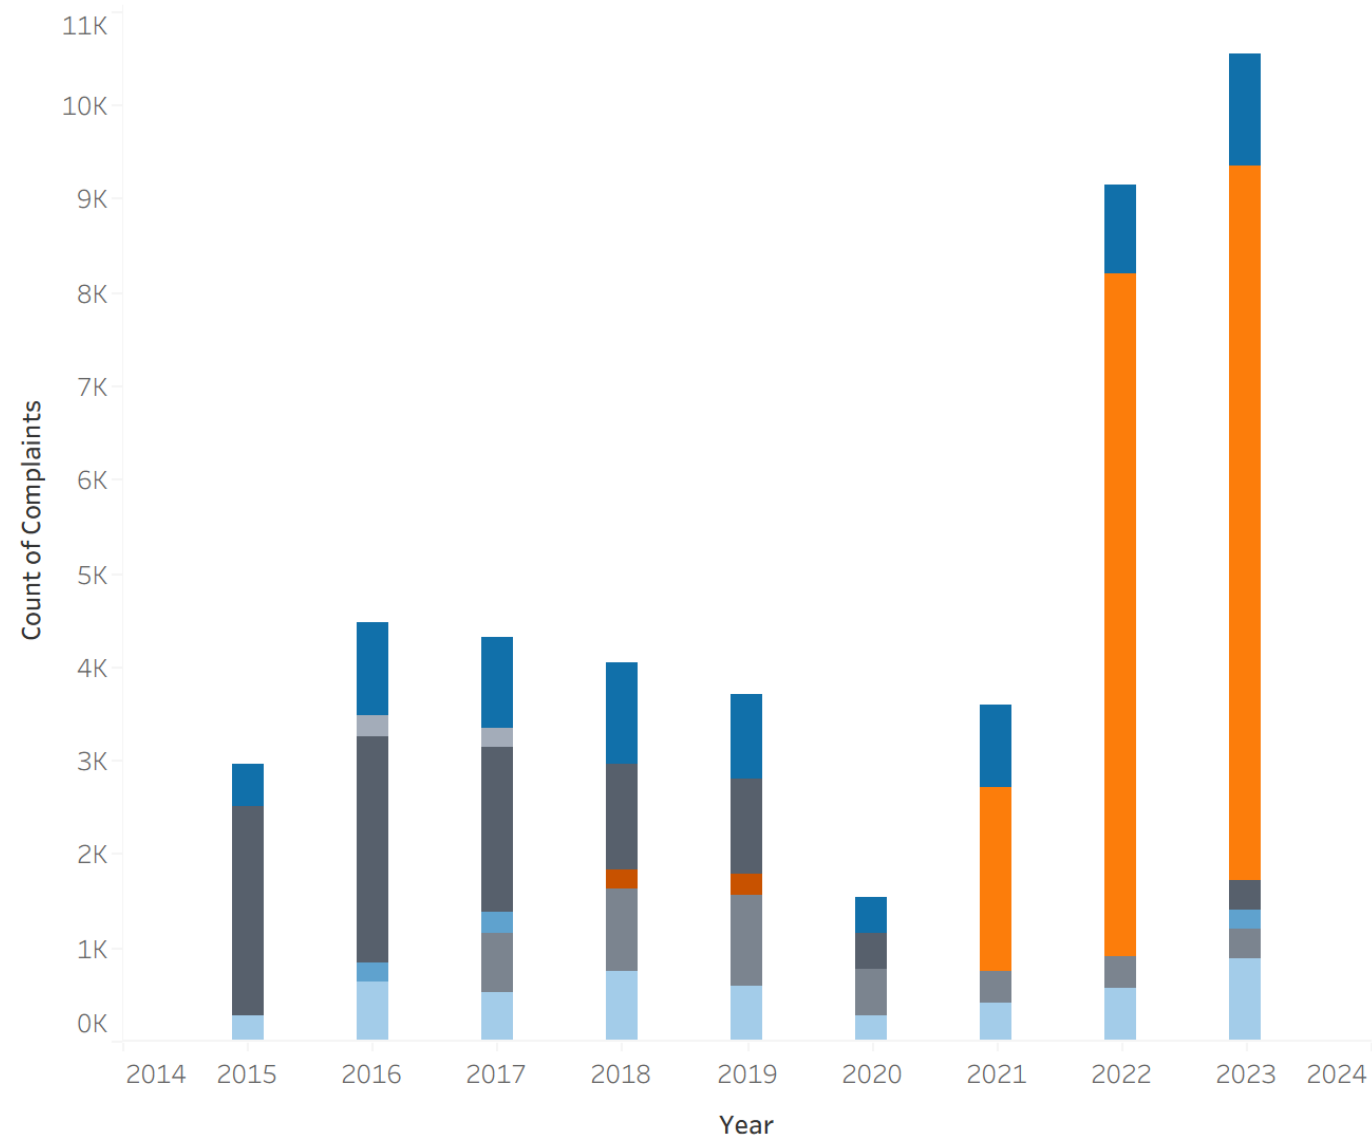

- Most of the complaints from 2015 to 2023 have occurred in Florida, Texas, California and New York
- In an effort to reduce complaints, more staffing may be provided to these areas to add extra help for current TSA employees

- Specifically at Dallas Fort Worth International Airport and George Bush Intercontinental Airport, TSA complaints have been higher in recent years (2022 and 2023) than in the past
- These airports will need to complete extra staff training and more employees will need to be hired at these locations

Complaints by Year at Texas Airports with the Highest Number of Complaints

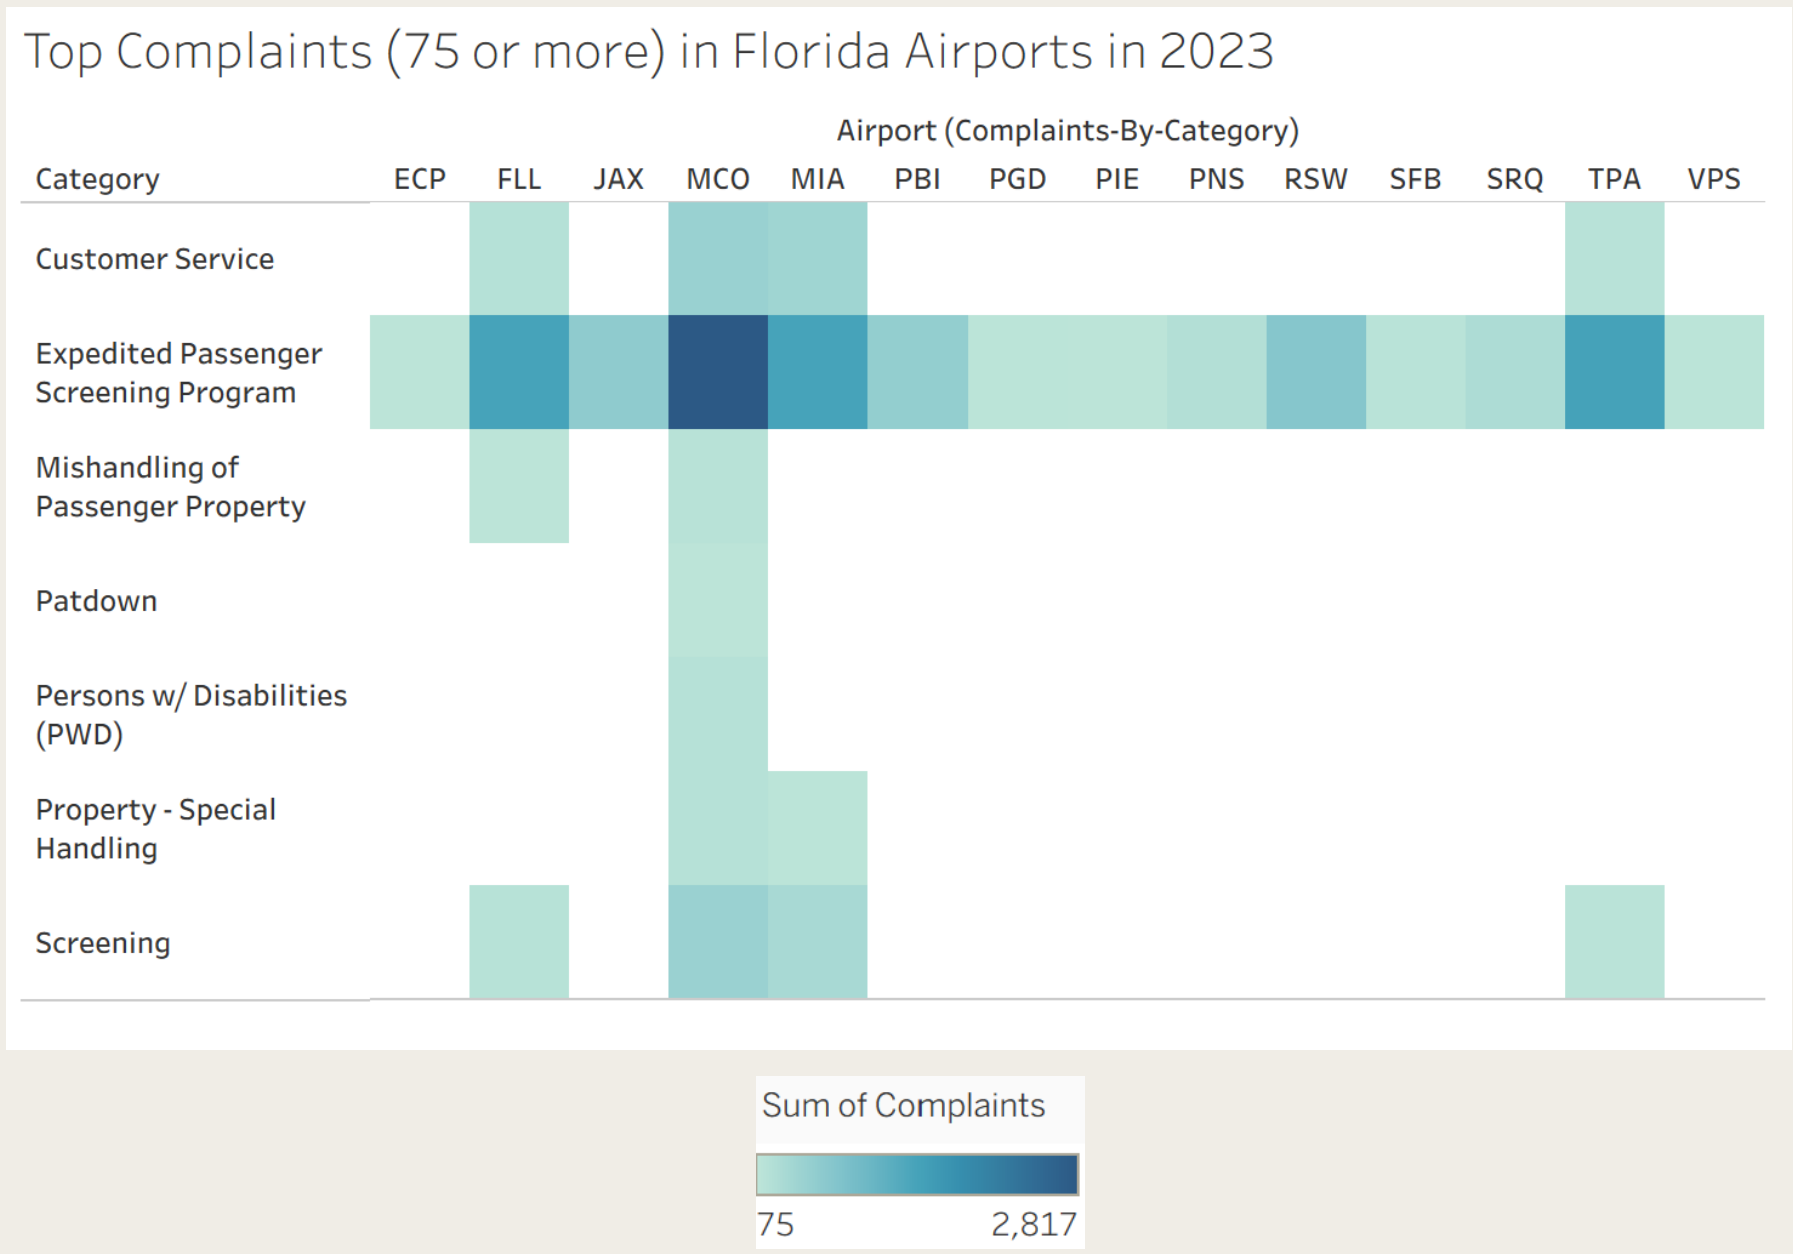

Complaints by Subcategory Per Year at Texas Airports

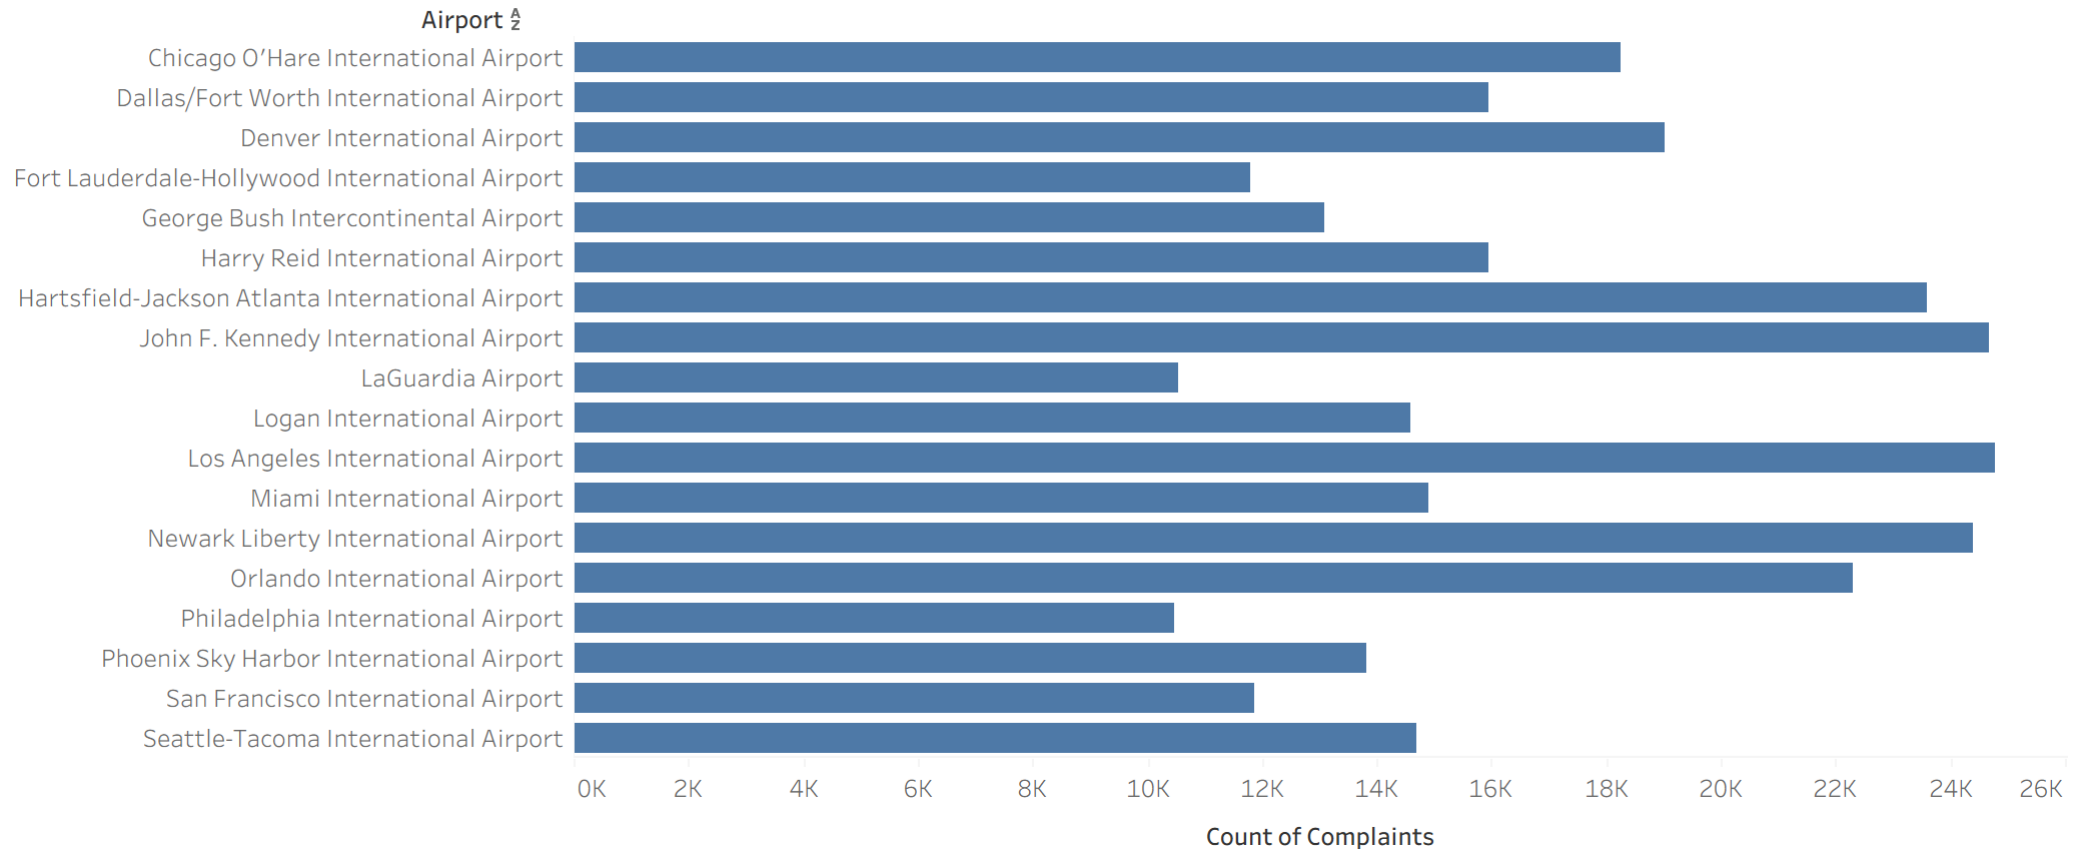

- In Texas, the highest number of complaints in recent years were related to the expedited passenger screening program
- Extra emphasis should be put on training TSA employees in this specific program to reduce complaints in the future

- In Florida, another state with a lot of complaints, the expedited passenger screening program was also a top complaint category in 2023.
- All TSA agents should receive extra training on this program to reduce the number of complaints
- Orlando International Airport had the most complaints out of all Florida airports. I would recommend hiring more staff at this location

Airports with the Highest Number of Complaints

- Airports with the highest number of TSA complaints include mostly international airports, plus LaGuardia airport
- TSA agents who work at International Airports should receive extra training in the upcoming year and we should look to hire more staffing at these locations

CONCLUSION

- TSA complaints have increased over the past decade
- We need to make changes in order to decrease the number of complaints received
- More staffing is needed at some locations in order to help staff out and to reduce complaints
- More training should be provided to show TSA employees how to handle specific situations